Interim Information Disclosure Policy

Chapter I Introduction

The New Development Bank (NDB or the Bank) was set up with an objective of mobilizing resources for infrastructure and sustainable development projects in BRICS and other emerging economies and developing countries, complementing the existing efforts of multilateral and regional financial institutions for global growth and development. The Bank is committed to a policy of information disclosure in order to promote transparency and enhance accountability in its operations. This commitment is explicitly recognized in the Article 15 of the AoA, which stipulates that the Bank shall ensure that its proceedings are transparent and shall elaborate in its own Rules of Procedure specific provisions regarding access to its documents.

This Interim Information Disclosure Policy sets out the Bank's approach to information disclosure with the objective of promoting the highest levels of transparency, accountability and probity. At the same time, the Bank recognizes the need to classify certain types of information and apply due process in deciding on the disclosure of such information.

This Policy shall have an interim character and will be reviewed taking into account all potential inputs as the operations of the Bank evolve. Approval of Interim Policy would allow the NDB to commence disclosure of relevant information to the public, including non-governmental organizations.

1.1 Key Principles of Information Disclosure

The Bank in its practices of information disclosure is guided by the following key principles:

1.1.1 Promoting Transparency

The Bank is guided by an underlying presumption that information concerning the Bank's activities will be made available in a timely manner to the public in the absence of an appropriate reason for confidentiality.

1.1.2 Enhancing Accountability

The Bank is committed to enhancing its accountability and therefore recognizes the importance of disclosing information to and communicating with the stakeholders on a regular basis.

1.1.3 Protecting Confidentiality

As a financial institution and an international organization, the Bank has a responsibility to restrict access to information whose disclosure could cause harm to specific parties or interests, particularly its members, clients, employees and other partners.

1.2 Approval of Policy

The Board of Directors (BoD) of the Bank approves this Policy. Any amendments to it, as and when needed, will also be considered and approved by the BoD, in order to regulate and manage the Bank's information disclosure.

1.3 Release and Control

1.3.1 Authority

The Corporate Communication Division, under the guidance of the Chief Administrative Officer (CAO), is responsible for drafting and proposing amendments to the Policy and the Guidelines issued to implement it. Other relevant departments, such as Operations, Legal, Corporate Secretariat and IT shall participate in drafting amendments and issuing implementation guidelines for this Policy.

1.3.2 Version Control and Review

In order to ensure the continued validity and application of this Policy, review will be conducted at least on an annual basis, and more often as may be deemed necessary, to reflect relevant changes in the business environment, operational updates and implementation experience.

1.4 Release

This Policy is a public document and it will be displayed on the Bank's official website, in line with its principle of transparency and intention to share information with the public.

1.5 Interim Character of the Policy

This Policy shall be of interim nature and its implementation will be reviewed annually, so that a comprehensive Information Disclosure Policy could be developed to secure the adherence of the Bank to its Key Principles of Information Disclosure.

Interim Information Disclosure Policy

Chapter II Classification of Information

For the purpose of implementing this Policy, the Bank will divide information into two broad categories: Public Information and Confidential Information.

2.1. Public Information

Public Information refers to information that can be accessed by anyone inside and/or outside of the Bank.

Public information includes the following broad categories: Governance Information, Operational Information, Financial Information, Policies and Strategies of the Bank.

A non-exhaustive list of key public Bank documents (with hyperlinks) and disclosed information shall be published on the website of the Bank. The list shall be regularly updated and developed as the operations of the Bank evolve. The list constitutes a minimum and does not make any judgments on the confidentiality of other documents or information not mentioned below. In addition to this, information accessible under the Key Principles of Information Disclosure may also be requested in accordance with paragraph 3.2. of this Policy.

2.1.1. Governance Information
