Code of Conduct	The Code of Business Conduct and Ethics as set forth herein

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Chapter I Background

The New Development Bank (“Bank” or “NDB”) has been established to mobilize resources for infrastructure and sustainable development projects in BRICS and other developing countries to complement the existing efforts of multilateral and regional financial institutions for global growth and development. A commitment towards highest standards of conduct and ethics by you and others who are associated with the Bank is an essential component to fulfill the purpose for which the Bank has come into being.

As set out in Chapter IV, Article 16 of AOA, the resources and facilities of the Bank shall be used exclusively to implement the purpose and functions set forth. The purpose of the Bank shall be to mobilize resources for infrastructure and sustainable development project in BRICS and other emerging economies and developing countries to complement the existing efforts of multilateral and regional financial institutions for global growth and development.

In addition to the directions contained in the AOA, the guidelines contained and principles outlined in the Bank’s Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (also referred as “Code of Conduct” or “Code”), along with other rules, regulations and internal policies, should be complied with by the Directors, President, Vice Presidents, Staff, Consultants, Interns and other personnel engaged by the Bank from time to time from outsourcing agencies or various entities. To deal with the aspects relating to ethics and transaction of official business, which are not covered in the Code of Conduct but have a bearing upon the functioning and reputation of the Bank, you should use your best judgment and conscience in your business and personal conduct.

Even though every possible measure should be taken to ensure the veracity and authenticity of the particulars submitted by any person during regular or temporary engagement with the Bank, if any fresh facts surface involving you or other associates at a later stage, which are detrimental to the reputation of the Bank and violate the basic principles enshrined in the Code of Conduct, it should be brought to the notice of the Ethics.

Certain guidelines and principles outlined in the Code of Conduct are also applicable to you after termination of employment/engagements/association with the Bank during the cooling-off period of two years. Such guidelines and principles include but are not limited to Section 4.9 Privacy and Confidentiality on non-public information of the Bank.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Since there is no resident BOD, the officials nominated to act as Directors/Alternate Directors by the concerned authorities of the shareholder countries, should conduct their official business pertaining to the Bank according to their best judgment and conscience keeping in mind that their actions reflect upon the reputation of the Bank. Any incident, outlined in this Code, involving any of the Directors/Alternate Directors would be confidentially brought to the notice of the concerned Governor/Alternate Governor of the member country by the Compliance Division or designed adhoc committee of the BOD.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Chapter II Core Values

2.1 Integrity

Absolute integrity is essentially to be maintained for every action by you and every entity associated with the activities of the Bank. The ethical values should be the guiding force for every behavior of you and other associates of the Bank. The information provided by you should be authentic, accurate and full so that there does not remain any gap at the time of taking administrative decisions. Information relating to subsequent development should also be intimated whenever such an occasion arises.

2.2 Honesty

At the time of official dealings within the Bank and personal conduct outside, honesty is the key consideration. Transaction of business based on honesty would create an environment of mutual trust between the Bank officials and its shareholders, partners and other stakeholders. Honest personal behavior would create a reputation of honesty internally in the international milieu of the Bank and also among the local public and private authorities which will pave the way for maintaining good reputation.

2.3 Loyalty

You are entrusted with considerable fiduciary responsibilities. As enshrined in Article 13 (f) Chapter III of AOA of the Bank, a commitment of professional loyalty is a prerequisite for you or entity which is engaged in any activity of the Bank. Irrespective of the nationality, you should only act according to the directions of the competent authority, and no other national, international and intra-national considerations should play a part in your activities which is perceived as harmful to the interest and reputation of the Bank.

2.4 Responsibility and Accountability

At the time of taking policy decisions and transacting other official business by the concerned authority on matters under your jurisdiction, the instructions, rules, procedures and commitments made in international agreements should be scrupulously followed and records maintained so that proper accountability of the decision taken can be ensured. Acting on oral instructions of superior authorities, where electronic or written communication was not possible, the steps should be properly noted and brought to the notice, by means of official electronic mail or otherwise, of the authority(s) on whose instruction actions have been taken.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Intentionally adopting delaying tactics or habitually failing to complete the assigned tasks within the stipulated timeframe would attract disciplinary action.

2.5 Enabling collaboration

To equip yourself with the wherewithal to face challenges and solve problems of the ever evolving economic and financial situation in the world, collaboration with shareholders, stakeholders, field experts, team members of the Bank and entities is of vital importance. Through a collaborative approach, where exchange of innovative ideas is held in an atmosphere of openness and trust, valuable time and resources would be saved to solve many imminent problems and the shareholders, stakeholders and other partners of the Bank would be able to cope up with the situation without outside assistance. The Bank would do its best to encourage collaborative approach to gather and disseminate knowledge for mutual benefit.

2.6 Empowering to take appropriate risk

A strong and visionary leadership, through establishment of unhindered communication channel to get valuable feedback and input from the internal branches, imparting training, organizing skill development programs, devoting time and focus can create an environment of empowerment in the institution. Every possible and innovative step would be taken to create such an environment where you would be motivated to take initiative to willingly take responsibility and complete the task following strict timelines with little guidance. Being an international financial institution and operative in a volatile global financial market, you would be suitably sensitized and advised so that you do not become risk-averse, but take appropriate investment and project financing decisions according to your best judgment, keeping in mind that the objectives and directions as enshrined in the AOA are not ignored or violated. At all decision-making levels, leaders should make known clearly to every subordinate official their responsibilities so that they can draw satisfaction after successful completion of the assigned tasks. If it is found that in order to evade your responsibility, you are seeking further direction from higher authority where no further clarification is required, you may be officially warned to not to repeat the act of evasion.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Chapter III Basic Principles

3.1 Good Faith

You shall strictly abide by the basic principle of good faith, adhere to the basic professional conduct of banking practitioners, act with high standard of professional ethics and protect the confidential information and privacy of the Bank and clients.

3.2 Compliance

You shall make yourself familiar with and abide by the Bank's compliance policies, safeguard financial security, perform legal obligations, protect the confidential information and privacy of the Bank and clients, respect creation, protect intellectual property right and patent, reflect the activities of international financial institutions based on fact, objectively and truthfully and shall not provide false information.

In the event of any activity, which according to the concerned authorities of the Bank is perceived as wrongdoing, disciplinary proceedings will follow.

3.3 Professional Competency

You shall always strive for excellence in performance of your position duties, and shall also work hard and make efforts to gather business knowledge and information, constantly improve policy awareness and professional qualifications, and improve competence and work efficiency.

3.4 Diligence

You shall have professional commitment and shall diligently and carefully perform position duties to maintain the reputation of the Bank.

3.5 Diversity and inclusion

Diversity and inclusion are at the heart of how the Bank defines organizational and professional excellence. The Bank's effectiveness depends on staff who bring a wide range of perspectives and the competencies to collaborate globally with a diverse array of clients and partners. The Bank continuously searches around the member countries to identify talented personnel with appropriate skills, backgrounds, experiences and perspectives. The Bank's diverse staff represents our commitment to an inclusive work environment where differences are both respected and valued. This inclusive approach enables you to contribute to the mission of the Bank and helps you to achieve your full potential.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

3.6 Equal Treatment

You shall keep in mind the service principle of client first, and provide quality and efficient services to them. Following the Bank's diversity principles, you shall treat each and every client and entity equally and will not discriminate on the grounds of race, gender, , , , ethnicity, sexual orientation, religion, disability and marital or family status.

3.7 Anti-Discrimination & Anti-Harassment

The Bank is composed of individuals drawn from various parts of the world, who belong to different religious and cultural background and its operational activities are also spread all over the world. The Bank prohibits any discrimination in favor of or against any official, individual or entity on the grounds of, disability, ethnicity, religion, race, gender, marital or family status or sexual orientation. Official position and influence should be used in such a way that there remains no scope of any impression that you have shown favor or discrimination against any person or entity on the above grounds using your official power during the conduct of business of the Bank.

Variance in the terms of service methods or fee rate based on contracts between the Bank and its staff shall not constitute discrimination based on transparent grading system, job levels etc.

Bullying and threatening staff members or other associates of Bank, whether colleague, peer, senior or subordinate, pressurizing to act in a particular way or complete the routine task hurriedly, intentionally detaining officials beyond normal office hours without any valid ground, taunting colleagues and subordinates about inefficient handling of assigned jobs, and intellectual or physical deficiency, etc. would be considered as harassment. You would behave in such a way that your relationship with colleagues remains cordial and mutually respectful. If any of the above incidents happen with you, the same may immediately be brought to the notice of the authority. All such formal complaints will be handled through investigations or disciplinary processes instituted by the Bank.

3.8 Prevention of sexual abuse

Sexual abuse is a crime. It is any unwanted sexual activity using force or otherwise, making threats or taking advantage for not giving consent.

Sexual harassment at workplace includes but is not limited to:

- sending sexually colored SMS/e-mail/pornographic photographs;
- requesting or demanding sexual favor;
- repeated attempt for making physical contacts; and

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

- unwelcome physical, verbal or non-verbal conduct of sexual nature.

You have the responsibility to immediately inform your team leader or Compliance Division or HRD about any such incident. Every precautionary measure would be taken to conduct the enquiry secretly and keep the identity of the reporting official secret. This provision covers all appointees and visitors within the Bank premises or outside the Bank premises. It is mandatory to report all such incident of sexual abuse, regardless of who the offender is, or the offender's relationship with the Bank. All such formal complaints will be handled through investigations or disciplinary processes instituted by the Bank.

3.9 Managers and Supervisors

You are each responsible for your own conduct. Those in supervisory positions play an additional role in promoting a workplace culture that upholds the Bank's values and standards. As a manager or supervisor of the Bank, you should help set the tone by:

- Serving as models of integrity;
- Encouraging an ongoing dialogue on business conduct issues and providing guidance to staff;
- Ensuring that internal systems, policies and procedures are applied consistently and fairly;
- Supporting staff members who raise a business conduct concern and fulfilling the Bank's commitment against retaliation;
- Making decisions based on fair assessments of work and on factual observations, regardless of internal or external pressures.

You have special responsibilities to treat all your staff fairly and objectively, without any favoritism, explicitly or implicitly. Because a sexual relationship between a subordinate and a direct or indirect supervisor undermines the supervisor's objectivity, it creates a conflict of interest. It also can create morale issues among colleagues. For these reasons, it is the responsibility of the more senior person to promptly resolve the conflict of interest by bringing it to the attention of the next-in-line senior management, HRD head, or the Ethics and Human Resources.

3.10 Political Activities

You shall not interfere in the political affairs of any member, nor shall you be influenced in your decisions by the political character of the member or members concerned. Only economic considerations shall be relevant to your decisions.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

The President, Vice-Presidents, officers and staff of the Bank, in the discharge of their Bank business, owe their duty entirely to the Bank and to no other authority. Each member of the Bank shall respect the international character of this duty and shall refrain from all attempts to influence any of them in the discharge of their duties.

Therefore, maintaining political neutrality is important. The appointees of the Bank are free to exercise their rights during national or provincial elections, but are not allowed to express views or publish comments on any political issue involving political parties in their own country or at the place of Bank headquarters, without explicit approval of the Compliance Division.

3.11 Government, Private Sector and Civil Society Relationship

It is critical that you maintain constructive relationships and work to build trust and confidence with the representative government, private sector and civil society. You may not seek or accept instructions concerning the performance of your duty from any external authority. Staff members needing guidance on how to handle a specific situation should consult their supervisor or divisional head, or designed adhoc committee of the BOD.

3.12 Confidential Information

Non-public information should not be disclosed to any unauthorized person or published in any media. You shall keep confidential all client information and may not obtain personal gains.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Chapter IV Duties and Requirements

4.1 Compliance Duties

You shall comply with Bank's management policies, detailed operating rules and business process when conducting business. You shall carefully read and comply with the compliance policies. When making decisions on business activities, you shall abide by the decision-making process and principles of the Bank, and avoid making any decisions in violation of policies and procedures of the Bank.

You shall carry out financial activities according to the internal policies and rules of the Bank. No employee may engage in any off-account business activities in any form.

You are responsible for the accuracy and completeness of the information, materials, reports and records under your management.

You shall keep business records in sufficient details to reflect all business activities of the Bank.

No employee may provide false financial information, reports or statistics or conceal material facts, and may not destroy any record that may be related to any violations, lawsuits, or investigations carried out by related divisions.

4.2 Appropriate Use of Power

It is important that you use power appropriately when performing work. One way to demonstrate appropriate use of the Bank's authority is in supporting countries in designing development solutions that suit their own circumstances.

Abuse of power can also take various forms, including but not limited to:

- Bullying or harassing behavior;
- Requesting staff to do personal favors or errands;
- Pressuring a staff member to distort facts or break Rules;
- Interfering with the ability of a colleague to work effectively (for example, by impeding access to information or resources);
- Using the Bank's letterhead to draw attention to a personal request;
- Dismissing community concerns on a project without due consideration.

4.3 Dress Code and Professional Appearance

The Bank endorses a "business formal" dress style in its work locations, on an "as appropriate" basis. All employees, even those who do not have direct client contact, represent the Bank in the community at large. Since it is important to project an image of competence and efficiency upon which the Bank's reputation has been built, grooming and dress is to be neat and professional at all times. Formal or traditional business attire is to be worn when appropriate to business circumstances.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

4.4 Courteous Services

You shall, during business activities, dress appropriately and conduct with a steady attitude and in a courteous and polite manner. You shall try to meet the reasonable requirements of clients and shall patiently explain the basis of specific decisions.

4.5 Conflicts of Interest and Insider Trading

When you transact any official business, you should always be mindful about the fact that there exists no conflict or an iota of doubt on perceived conflict between your personal interests and the interest of the Bank. You shall abide by the principles of good faith, fairness and client-first approach, and shall properly balance the relationship between business development and protection of client interests. You shall deal with potential conflicts of interest according to the following principles:

- In case of potential conflicts of interest, you shall immediately bring the matter to the notice of your superior and act strictly according to the advice given by the higher authority.
- When the client of the Bank has close relationship with you, you shall clearly distinguish between the interest of the Bank and the personal interest. You should not, by taking advantage of your position, treat the client more favorably with facilities than those which available to other financial clients.

The BOD or the Committee appointed by it is responsible to consider requests from Directors, Alternate Directors, the President or the Vice Presidents for guidance concerning possible actual or potential conflicts of interest or other ethical aspects of conduct and provide advice in response.

You are strictly prohibited to indulge in insider trading activities. No employee may disclose, either expressly or implied, nonpublic information (insider information) to others, or obtain personal gains by abusing insider information, or provide wealth management or investment suggestions to others based upon insider information.

You are prohibited from trading in stocks, convertible bonds, options, bonds, subordinated bonds and other stock index derivatives, issued by the Bank as well as its clients, based on insider information. Speculative transaction and short selling are not permitted. Being privy to general/specific information relating to economic and financial activities which might influence the stock markets, speculative trading or short-selling in the stock market are strictly prohibited as there may arise a conflict of personal financial interest and that of the Bank.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

If any personal interest or relationship issue impedes or obstructs you from serving the Bank and its clients in an appropriate manner, you shall try to avoid such conflicts of interest, or recuse yourself from the process to avoid the impact of conflicts of interest on the Bank. In case such activities have occurred, you shall bring the matters to the notice of higher authority for directions to proceed ahead.

Prior to joining the Bank in any capacity, if you have officially disengaged yourself with outside business activities but remained as an advisor, patron or any of your family members, near relatives are gainfully employed or are engaged in partnership with the firm/company/vendor, etc. which has business dealings with the Bank, then it is your responsibility to immediately report the matter to your higher level of authority and HRD. No scope should be given to anyone to feel that there exists a conflict or a perceived conflict of interest because the Bank is associated with an entity through which a close relative(s) of a particular officer/employee operates gainfully. If it comes to your notice that the Bank is going to establish any business partnership with a person, company or entity where any of your family members or close relatives is employed or associated, the matter should immediately be brought to the notice of the higher authority, who in turn would sound the concerned Division for necessary action.

If an investment activity affects you from making an unbiased decision, you shall avoid making such investment or be excused from the decision-making position.

4.6 Nepotism and Relatives

Because the perception of favoritism or improper influence exists when relatives are employed within the Bank, restrictions apply. To avoid conflicts of interest, close relatives, as defined in the Recruitment Policy of the Bank and subject to approval from the BOD, are not allowed to work for the Bank at all, either as individuals or through firms

You also cannot use your position to directly or indirectly promote the interests of relatives.

4.7 Know Your Client and Anti-Money Laundering

Money laundering is the process of converting illegal gains into seemingly legal funds and is not limited to cash transactions. Money laundering is illegal. You shall comply with Anti-money Laundering Policy of the Bank, and take measures to avoid participating or assisting in money laundering transaction due to negligence.

You must pay attention to suspicious activities according to anti-money laundering rules, which activities include money laundering, terrorist financing, insider trading, abuse of power, fraud and the embezzlement or misappropriation of funds. You are obligated to promptly report to your divisional head or relevant functional divisions of the Bank for any large-amount transactions according to the Bank's Anti-Money Laundering (AML) Policy, without compromising client confidentiality.

In addition to the directions given in Article 2 & 3 and Article 16 of AOA, the concerned authorities, while sanctioning projects in various parts of the world, should satisfy themselves about the authenticity and true motive of the borrowing party so that there does not remain an iota of doubt about the utilization of the funds thus provided. The borrowed money should be spent only for the purpose for which it is provided. Suitable measures should be taken to ensure that even a part of the fund is not diverted or channelized to other authorities for funding terrorist, other subversive activities and money laundering. Hence, separate procedural guidelines are issued so that due diligence is carried out by the concerned divisions before exposing financial resources of the Bank to external agencies.

4.8 Risk Indication

When recommending products or rendering services to clients, you shall, fully indicate the legal risks, policy risks, market risks and other risks related to the recommended products and services, shall reply to client questions based on the principle of good faith, and may not conceal risks or make false or misleading representations or commitments in order to conclude a deal.

4.9 Privacy and Confidentiality

You shall avoid disclosing any country data, trade secrets of the Bank and confidential information of clients acquired and known to you during the term of employment.

During the term of the employment with the Bank and after termination thereof, you shall keep confidential any non-public information obtained or created in the process of conducting business activities for the Bank. You shall avoid disclosing any proprietary or confidential information pertaining to the Bank or its employees or any confidential information related to clients without authorization. Proprietary and confidential information and materials include:

- non-public information related to the operations, performance, strategies and forecasts of the Bank;
- non-public information about the business plan, business procedures and client relationships of the Bank;
- non-public information of individual employee;

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

- non-public information related to the clients acquired by the employees during their term of employment; and
- non-public information about the technology, system and proprietary products of the Bank.

No information should be divulged by unauthorized officials to any person or entity to facilitate gainful financial advantage thereby jeopardizing the interest of the Bank. Confidential data and documents containing valuable information regarding member countries, future investment proposals, details of Board meetings, project appraisal, etc. should not be shared with any internal or external authority or agency which is not authorized to have access to them. The circulation of documents, unless categorically directed by higher authority to do otherwise, should be done in such a way that their movement/access is restricted to the authorities as per guidelines and classification issued from time to time. The key programs of the Bank shall be protected by password, limit of authorization and security administrator.

No employee may discuss any sensitive topic pertaining to the operations of the Bank at public places such as elevators, corridors, restaurants and public transports.

Ensuring the security and proper use of client information is one top priority of the Bank. You must keep the confidentiality of the details of identity and other confidential information disclosed by the clients. Additionally, you must make sure that the client information shall be used only for the designed purposes, unless further use is permitted or authorized by the clients.

Unless otherwise provided by the internal policies of the Bank, you are entitled to refuse the requests to inquire into clients' information by any entity or individual.

The nonpublic information of clients shall be managed in different categories and updated periodically. The originals of important documents must be taken back after being photocopied, faxed or scanned to prevent inadvertent disclosure. Client information may not be provided to a third party for commercial purpose without notifying or authorization by the clients.

Notwithstanding the multi-national and multi-cultural milieu in which the Bank operates, the Bank acknowledges and protects the privacy and confidentiality of the identity information, compensation information, and HR records of all employees. Certain aspects, e.g. your particular medical condition, which is private to you and does not have any bearing upon the interest and reputation of this international institution, should be guarded and protected by the HRD so that you do not suffer any psychological complexity and a feeling of humiliation comes to your mind, which may lead to reduced productivity during your engagement with the Bank. Except authorized by you or disclosed in pursuit of relevant laws or orders of the authorities, such information may not be published or discussed either within or outside the Bank. You shall at all times observe decency and respect the privacy of colleagues.

The President of the Bank is empowered to interact with the Press and electronic media. If the President so desires, he may authorize any of the Vice-Presidents and other officers to speak to the media and share information with them on any particular subject. Press releases and Press statements, with the approval of the President, would be issued as and when the concerned division of the Bank considers it is demanded in the situation.

4.10 Fighting Fraud, Corruption and Bribery

The Bank establishes and maintains high standard of business ethics and request all employees to conduct business ethically and legally. You shall strictly abide by BRICS countries' relevant provisions and the Bank's Anti-Corruption, Anti-Fraud and Anti-Money Laundering Policy.

The Bank enforces a Zero-Tolerance Policy against corruption and bribery. You should not indulge in any activity for obtaining personal gain by misusing official authority and power. In the event of any complaint lodged or it comes to the notice of the Bank authorities that an act of giving/receiving kickback, bribe, graft, committing fraud, embezzlement of fund, abuse of laws for monetary gains, indulging in delaying tactics to sanction contract, etc. by any official/entity associated with the Bank exists, due procedure, as detailed in the Anti-Corruption, Anti-Fraud and Anti-Money Laundering Policy would be followed.

4.11 Gifts, Advantages & Entertainment

As a matter of principle, you should desist from accepting and giving gifts from/to any private person or entity engaged in private sector. Exchange of gifts of negligible monetary value of up to US$ 50.00 as souvenir/memorabilia/memento with the visiting dignitaries, or when the President, Vice Presidents and divisional heads visit other countries/organization is allowed. If, for any reason, you receive a valuable gift from any client, contractor, vendor or job seeker for transacting any administrative or financial business, the same should immediately be brought to the notice of your supervisor for suitable action as per Bank policy.

Similarly, accepting award/titles given by governmental authorities is permitted subject to the condition that prior approval of the competent in the Bank has been obtained.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

4.12 Outside Activities

Each staff member brings unique knowledge and experience to the institution, often built on and cultivated through outside activities. The Bank recognizes and supports the important roles that you may have outside the Bank. The Bank policy does not have any restriction on participation in outside activities and engagements subject to the conditions that it should not result in moonlighting or double employment for a salary or remuneration or benefits except for honorary activities and should not pose any conflict of interest as mentioned in section 4.5 of this Code. Any such incidents should be declared to the Compliance Division..

4.13 Future employment

You may apply for any position in any outside organization. The staffs, officers should not take up any employment in any organization with which they have dealt in official capacity of the Bank within two years of separation/retirement from the Bank services.

4.14 Accuracy of Book Records and Reporting

Detailed policies enumerating procedural guidelines for maintenance, categorization, classification, retention and archiving of records as per international standards are formulated and implemented by the Bank.

4.15 Taking Good Care of Assets and Properties

You shall properly protect and use the assets and properties of the Bank. You shall abide by the safety measures at workplace, protect the assets and properties of the Bank, properly and effectively use the assets and properties of the Bank. You may not use the assets and properties of the Bank for personal gain, or damage, waste, encroach, misappropriate and abuse the assets and properties of the Bank in any way.

Considering the fact that the Bank would be operating in the volatile financial market of the world, every precautionary safeguards would be put in place so that its financial assets are based on strong footing. The concerned authorities would always remain alert and regular review of the financial health of the Bank would be conducted, and all decisions relating to investment and exposure of financial resources would be made on the basis of sound economic fundamentals and principles.

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

Under no circumstances the assets and properties of the Bank would be allowed to use for personal gain. Caution should be maintained that the official vehicles and other facilities provided by the Bank to you for conduct of official business are used for the designated purpose only. You shall clearly distinct corporate and individual interests, and may not seek personal gains and damage corporate interest in the following ways:

- misappropriate banks funds, and embezzle bank assets;
- deposit bank funds in an account opened under the name of employee or other individual;
- extend loans or provide guarantees with bank assets without proper authorization;
- provide guarantee for a third party by usurping the name of the Bank without proper authorization;
- seek business opportunities for individual employees or any other person by taking advantage of your position with the Bank;
- obtain commissions from a third party's transactions with the Bank or take bribes or other illegal gains by taking advantage of your position with the Bank; or
- disclose bank secrets without authorization.

Proceeds obtained by you from the above activities shall belong to the Bank.

4.16 Private Telephone Calls, Correspondence and use of the Bank's Facilities

The Bank relies a good deal on telephone communications and it is important that the system is kept free for the conduct of business. Non-essential private telephone calls are therefore discouraged, but necessary and brief private telephone calls are permitted from the office telephones. This concession must be exercised in such a way that there is no more than a minor disruption of your work if and when making a private telephone call. However, the Bank authorities reserve the right to withdraw this facility, if reasonably believed, that it is working unsatisfactorily, or is being abused. Similarly, you are requested not to make private use of the Bank's photocopier, fax or postal (including franking) facilities.

Private correspondence must not be sent to the Bank's address, nor should correspondence relating to work be sent to a private address. The Bank accepts no liability for any private letters which may arrive at the Bank's premises and can give no guarantee that they will not be opened. The Bank's stationery must not be used for personal correspondence. Overall, you must not use the Bank's time, resources or materials for private purposes, and must avoid any conduct which may be prejudicial to the efficiency or reputation of the Bank. Failure to observe these rules will be a disciplinary offence and will thus be subject to disciplinary action that may lead to dismissal without notice.

4.17 E-mail and MSN Messenger Service

The employees, staffs and officers should strictly follow the Bank's IT policy guidelines issued from time to time.

4.18 Protection of Intellectual Property Rights

The copy right for the work the employees, staffs and officers produces in their official capacity belongs to the Bank. The officials should respect the intellectual property rights of others and should not cause embarrassment to the Bank.

4.19 Smoke-Free Workplace

The Bank's aim is to provide healthy working conditions for all employees. The Bank is a smoke free work place. Violation of this by officials and visitors will attract appropriate penalties.

4.20 Alcohol and Drugs

Officials of the Bank cannot work under the influence of alcohol and drugs and doing so will have disciplinary consequences. In events organized by the Bank, within the office premises, social drinking may be allowed which would generally be after normal office hours.

4.21 Betting and Gambling

Betting and gambling within the premises of the Bank is prohibited.

4.22 Raising and registering issues/complaints/concerns relating to misconduct and consequences thereof

Suitable mechanism is in place so that fear and apprehension of retaliation do not deter officials to bring any information regarding any misconduct to the notice of appropriate authority in the Bank. Secrecy and confidentiality would be maintained so that the identity of the complainant does not get disclosed and appropriate measures will be taken to protect the person. The Bank has zero toleration on retaliation.

If need arises, the competent authority in the Bank would not hesitate to take help of local law enforcing agencies to unearth the wrongdoings and suitably punish the guilty.

The staff and members of the Management whose employment / connection with the Bank has been terminated due to reasons of misconduct or violation of the Code

Code of Business Conduct and Ethics
